8 Blasted Business Blocks Of Oregon City Sealed Off

ROSEBURG, Ore. (AP)—Eight business blocks of this southern Oregon city, sealed and shattered when a truck load of explosives blew up like a bomb, were sealed off by the National Guard today while searchers sought more victims.

At least 11 persons were killed early Friday when the 6½ tons of dynamite and other explosives detonated after fire spread to the parked truck from a nearby building blaze.

Coroner C. H. Babbitt said he was certain that there were other deaths. He said ashes, believed to be the remains of humans, were found in a charred rooming house near the blast scene. The ashes are being sent to a laboratory for testing.

Some 100 persons were injured by the blast, 52 of them requiring hospital treatment.

The explosion, which eyewitnesses said sent a column of flame hundreds of feet into the air, caused extensive damage to an eight block section on the edge of the main business district. Buildings in some 22 blocks around the blast scene were damaged to a lesser extent. Firemen said they had reports of windows being broken as far away as seven miles.

Arlo Jacklin, mayor of this city of 12,200, said property damage would probably total 10 to 12 million dollars.

The truck, loaded with two tons of stick dynamite and 4½ tons of the explosive mixture of ammonium nitrate and oil had been parked near the Gerretsen Building Supply Co. building for the night by its driver, George Ruthenford, 47, of Chehalis, Wash.

It is believed that a fire started in trash cans and then spread to the Gerretsen structure. Firemen were fighting the fire — which spread quickly — when at 1:15 a.m. the truck blew up with a deafening roar.

Marshall left last Friday for a visit with his ill brother-in-law at Sanford, Fla. Investigators said he did not remain long at Sanford.

After officials checked his books, Marshall was charged last Wednesday with embezzling $500. Company officials said they were stunned at charges against Marshall, known for private help to youths in trouble and needy students.

Charles Neyer, retired Dome vice president, said, "if we could only reach him, I'd been willing to be lenient."

Marshall had worked five years at Dome and his pay was $80 weekly. Police said he served 39 months on a 1950 forgery conviction in Idaho.

Steel Strike Pressure on Ike Mounts

Leaders Think President Should Enter Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—The 25-day-old steel strike seemed as far away from settlement as ever today, and pressure was mounting in Congress to have President Eisenhower intervene.

Friday, Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald joined company spokesmen and mediators in saying that recent reports of progress were unfounded. Negotiations will resume Monday after a weekend recess.

In Washington, 32 Senate Democrats have sponsored a resolution urging Eisenhower to try to speed a settlement in the strike, which experts estimate has already cost both company and workers more than a billion dollars in wages and orders.

The resolution was offered Tuesday by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) who has asked that it be left open for other signers until next Tuesday, when it will be referred to the Senate Labor Committee.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), the Senate Majority Leader, has indicated he is taking no part in pushing the resolution, but 31 senators have joined Symington in signing it.

The strike has idled half a million steelworkers and shut down almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel production. It is estimated that more than 100,000 workers in transportation and mining have been thrown out of work as a result of the strike.

The resolution, if passed, would put Congress on record as favoring two moves. The first would be to have the President summon union and industry leaders to the White House and use his influence to have them reach agreement.

If that failed, the President would be expected to set a deadline for agreement. If no agreement was reached by then, the President would be expected to appoint a fact-finding board to submit recommendations for a settlement.

The President has already named Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell as a one-man fact finder, but there has been no indication Mitchell's role would be much more than to keep the President informed on the situation.

The President is understood to be reluctant to interfere with the process of collective bargaining, and does not want to make any move that might be looked on as helping one side or the other.

Chief Federal Mediator Joseph F. Finnegan cautioned against false hopes merely because industry and union have been meeting face-to-face instead of separately. He said such meetings were encouraging, but it was a mistake to believe they had resulted in progress.

The news did not, of course, show up in business statistics. But it did exert pressure on those sensitive barometers, the stock markets. Stocks of companies with large defense orders sagged for several days running.

Stock sales totaled 12,768,484 shares in the latest week compared with 15,069,048 shares in the previous week and 18,523,120 shares in the same week last year. Bond sales had a par value of $28,045,000 in the latest week against $28,587,000 the week before and $30,445,000 in the same 1958 week.

The mood of market analysts became cautious. Said R. E. Buchsbaum of W. E. Hutton & Co.: "A reduction in tensions could mean less emphasis on defense and a stretchout of major military programs."

And Sidney B. Lurie of Josephthal & Co. commented, "Most assuredly, peace is bullish, but anything which hints of a smaller defense budget could be psychologically disturbing."

Many companies, both large and small, have orders based upon the defense program.

The reaction of American stock exchanges varied from those in Europe. The Frankfurt, West Germany, market had a wild boom the day the news came out. The London stock market staged a very substantial advance throughout the week.

Meanwhile, back at the mill, silence reigned. The steel strike ended its third week, went into its fourth. Negotiators appeared to be making very little progress.

Ancient Samurai Swords Sought

NEW YORK (AP)—Some GIs are in for a good "cut" if they own certain ancient Samurai swords, considered by Japan to be national treasures.

The Japanese Artistic Sword Preservation Assn. has launched a treasure hunt for 42 of the fierce-looking, two-handed blades believed brought home by American servicemen after World War I. The 42 are among an estimated 350,000 carted home by the men.

Junzo Sato, representative of the association, said Friday he was prepared to present "suitable gifts" to any one returning a valuable Samurai sword. The most treasured blades, the ones being sought, date back to the 11th and 12th centuries.

Sponsors Say House To OK New Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of three different labor control bills agree that the House this year will pass some kind of bill aimed at labor racketeers.

A week of debate on the bills begins in the House on Tuesday. One of them has the support of President Eisenhower, who appealed to the nation on radio and television Thursday night to erase what he called the national disgrace of labor-management gangsterism.

The President supported the toughest of the three, the bill sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (R-Ga.) and Robert P. Griffin (D-Mich.).

The House also is considering a bill sponsored by Rep. John F. Shelley (D-Calif.). This measure has the support of the AFL-CIO. Another bill voted out by the House Labor Committee has the support of Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.).

The committee bill is a watered-down version of a bill passed by the Senate in April.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said there had been a large number of telegrams commenting on the President's speech and many were "virtually unanimous in support of the President's position."

The networks turned down a request by Democrats for equal time to answer Eisenhower. But their viewpoint will be given some time on radio and television.

Cincy Firm's Treasurer Being Sought

CINCINNATI (AP)—The hunt for the missing treasurer of Dome Chemical Corp., charged with embezzlement, is concentrated on Florida today.

Dome attorneys filed suit Friday against Edward S. Marshall, 35, secretary-treasurer of the lighter fluid manufacturing firm, for $150,000 damages.

The suit contended Marshall's financial manipulations involved $120,000 in cash and he took checks and other documents worth about $30,000.

Marshall left last Friday for a visit with his ill brother-in-law at Sanford, Fla. Investigators said he did not remain long at Sanford.

After officials checked his books, Marshall was charged last Wednesday with embezzling $500. Company officials said they were stunned at charges against Marshall, known for private help to youths in trouble and needy students.

Charles Neyer, retired Dome vice president, said, "If we could only reach him, I'd be willing to be lenient."

Marshall had worked five years at Dome and his pay was $80 weekly. Police said he served 39 months on a 1950 forgery conviction in Idaho.

Steel Strike Pressure on Ike Mounts

Leaders Think President Should Enter Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—The 25-day-old steel strike seemed as far away from settlement as ever today, and pressure was mounting in Congress to have President Eisenhower intervene.

Friday, Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald joined company spokesmen and mediators in saying that recent reports of progress were unfounded. Negotiations will resume Monday after a weekend recess.

In Washington, 32 Senate Democrats have sponsored a resolution urging Eisenhower to try to speed a settlement in the strike, which experts estimate has already cost both company and workers more than a billion dollars in wages and orders.

The resolution was offered Tuesday by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) who has asked that it be left open for other signers until next Tuesday, when it will be referred to the Senate Labor Committee.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex), the Senate Majority Leader, has indicated he is taking no part in pushing the resolution, but 31 senators have joined Symington in signing it.

The strike has idled half a million steelworkers and shut down almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel production. It is estimated that more than 100,000 workers in transportation and mining have been thrown out of work as a result of the strike.

The resolution, if passed, would put Congress on record as favoring two moves. The first would be to have the President summon union and industry leaders to the White House and use his influence to have them reach agreement.

If that failed, the President would be expected to set a deadline for agreement. If no agreement was reached by then, the President would be expected to appoint a fact-finding board to submit recommendations for a settlement.

The President has already named Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell as a one-man fact finder, but there has been no indication Mitchell's role would be much more than to keep the President informed on the situation.

The President is understood to be reluctant to interfere with the process of collective bargaining, and does not want to make any move that might be looked on as helping one side or the other.

Chief Federal Mediator Joseph F. Finnegan cautioned against false hopes merely because industry and union have been meeting face-to-face instead of separately. He said such meetings were encouraging, but it was a mistake to believe they had resulted in progress.

Ancient Samurai Swords Sought

NEW YORK (AP)—Some GIs are in for a good "cut" if they own certain ancient Samurai swords, considered by Japan to be national treasures.

The Japanese Artistic Sword Preservation Assn. has launched a treasure hunt for 42 of the fierce-looking, two-handed blades believed brought home by American servicemen after World War I. The 42 are among an estimated 350,000 carted home by the men.

Junzo Sato, representative of the association, said Friday he was prepared to present "suitable gifts" to any one returning a valuable Samurai sword. The most treasured blades, the ones being sought, date back to the 11th and 12th centuries.

'MISS OHIO' CAROLE WEILER

New U.S. 'Moon' Collecting Data

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—

Paddle-wheeled Explorer VI, the most advanced American satellite, orbited in a wide sweep around the earth today and collected scientific data that may ease man's way into space.

The spheroid, sporting four paddle vanes trying to catch energy from the sun, was launched Friday at the missile test center here. A Thor-Able rocket, 90 feet long and in three stages, sent it aloft.

Soaring 25,950 miles from earth at its highest point and coming 132 miles above earth at its lowest, the satellite had the longest orbit of the six artificial moons now in space. It also takes six times as long as any other satellite to make a trip around the earth—12½ hours.

Packed in the 142-pound satellite was the most comprehensive scientific package ever orbited by the United States, enough instruments to perform 15 experiments.

The National Astronautics and Space Administration in Washington, getting reports on signals transmitted by the satellite on 108.06 and 108.09 megacycles and on an undisclosed high frequency, reported that every instrument tested was working perfectly.

Most of the experiments are designed to provide vital information for sending a man into space. In summary, the instruments would:

1. Measure the intensity and length of the deadly radiation in the Van Allen belts that hover around the earth.

2. Demonstrate whether the four paddle vanes can convert enough of the sun's rays into electrical energy so that a future space ship could send radio messages from 20 to 50 million miles in space.

3. Scan the earth's cloud cover and transmit radio signals that might be converted into pictures that could help weather forecasting.

4. Measure the density of micrometeorites or cosmic dust to see how a space ship would hold up under their bombardment.

5. Chart the earth's magnetic field.

6. Study the behavior or radio waves to learn more about communications far out in space.

2 Ohio Solons Going to Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two representatives will be among a group of House members going to Moscow this month. They will survey the effect of the United States exhibit there.

Frank Bow, Republican from Canton, will travel with a six-man House Appropriations Subcommittee. They will leave Aug. 22 for a two-day visit.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, Democrat from Flushing, Belmont County, plans to leave four days earlier. He is a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He said he may be accompanied by Rep. Francis P. Bolton, Republican from Lyndhurst, Cleveland suburb.

The reaction of American stock exchanges varied from those in Europe. The Frankfurt, West Germany, market had a wild boom the day the news came out. The London stock market staged a very substantial advance throughout the week.

Meanwhile, back at the mill, silence reigned. The steel strike ended its third week, went into its fourth. Negotiators appeared to be making very little progress.

A strike of workers in the copper, lead and zinc industries loomed for Aug. 20. The aluminum (Continued on Page Two)

Local Beauty To Compete at Atlantic City

Wins Over 18 Girls At Mansfield; Was Miss Ohio State

The "Miss Ohio" title is Circleville's own today.

Carole Annette Weiler, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Weiler, 204 N. Pickaway St., won the coveted award last night at Mansfield.

She will compete in the Miss America contest at Atlantic City later this year. Carole defeated 18 other Ohio beauties for the crown.

While Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley of Brandon, Miss., looked on, the new Miss Ohio was crowned Friday night by last year's state winner, Peggy Jo Putnam of Ada.

Miss Weiler, who entered as Miss Ohio State University, was sponsored by OSU's Student Senate.

Ohio's new queen stands five feet, three inches tall, weighs 110 pounds and measures 36-26-35.

Her ambition is nursing, and she likes bowling and horseback riding.

In addition to the crown and trophy, she will receive a $1,000 college scholarship.

First alternate is Shirley Lou Scheuerman, 19, of Lima, Miss Central Ohio. She will receive a $500 scholarship.

Miss Portsmouth, Betty Jean Baughman, 18, is second alternate. She was awarded a $225 scholarship.

"Miss Congeniality," chosen by the contestants, is Cleo Mengos, 19, of Piqua, Miss Miamiand. Gloria Ann Rehkopf, 19, of Toledo, Miss Key-To-The-Sea, was named "Miss Talent." Both winners receive a $200 scholarship.

All other contestants are awarded $25.

Finalists for the Miss Ohio crown also included Karen Lee Gray, 18, of Akron, Miss Summit County, and Kay Leslie Ross, 18, Miss Cincinnati.

Miss Ohio will go to the Miss America finals at Atlantic City later this year.

The 19 contestants were graded on talent, beauty and their answers to questions posed by a five-judge panel. Competition began Thursday.

Carole was still in Mansfield today. She was to have breakfast in the Park Avenue Room of the Mansfield Leland Hotel with the other contestants and hostesses for an awards meeting. At 10:30 a. m. today she was to pose for Atlantic City photographs.

Selection of Carole's Atlantic City wardrobe was to begin at 1 p. m. The new queen and her family were expected to return to Circleville later today.

Sponsors Say House To OK New Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sponsors of three different labor control bills agree that the House this year will pass some kind of bill aimed at labor racketeers.

A week of debate on the bills begins in the House on Tuesday. One of them has the support of President Eisenhower, who appealed to the nation on radio and television Thursday night to erase what he called the national disgrace of labor-management gangsterism.

The President supported the toughest of the three, the bill sponsored by Reps. Phil M. Landrum (D-Ga.) and Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich.).

The House also is considering a bill sponsored by Rep. John F. Shelley (D-Calif.). This measure has the support of the AFL-CIO. Another bill voted out by the House Labor Committee has the support of Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.).

The committee bill is a watered-down version of a bill passed by the Senate in April.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said there had been a large number of telegrams commenting on the President's speech and many were "virtually unanimous in support of the President's position."

The network turned down a request by Democrats for equal time to answer Eisenhower. But their viewpoint will be given some time on radio and television.

Fancy Flavor Due For Cigarettes

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you like to play the gracious host, and your guests sometimes ask for cigarettes, you may shortly find yourself inquiring: "Cinnamon or chocolate?"

Or maybe: "How about trying a new-mown hay?"

The prospect of flavored cigarettes was discussed at a news conference Thursday by George Weissman, vice president and director of marketing for a major tobacco company, Philip Morris. "The cigarette industry," he said, "is in the process of a revolution. There is a possibility that the cigarettes we smoked a scant five years ago may become obsolete."

"The American public has let us know they will play flavor. To that end, many cigarette companies are right now testing cinnamon flavor, chocolate — even new-mown hay."

Steel Strike Area Meat Sales Drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Packers supplying meat to areas affected by the steel strike are concerned about the drop in sales and resulting lack of volume, Market News Service said today.

Ohio's 85 interior yards received 47,710 head, about the same as last week but 7 per cent greater than a year ago.

Jaycees Urge Highway Work Continuation

The Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce Thursday night passed a resolution urging the continuation of the National Highway Program at its present level.

The Jaycees move, passed at its regular bi-monthly general membership meeting, held at the Wardell Party Home, was prompted by the adverse effect the loss of further highway construction would cause to local concerns and residents.

The Jaycees were referring to the C. F. Replogle Co., D. E. Goodchild Inc. and other local highway construction firms.

Ohio has called a halt to all highway construction until the Federal Government decides on whether to continue financial aid to states for building highways.

ACCORDING TO Replogle officials, this halt of highway construction will shut down its operation around the first of the year. Replogle has approximately 300 local employees and nearly 1,000 all over the state.

The Jaycees, as a club, are writing Ohio's senators urging them to vote for continuation of the program, which they consider important and necessary.

Several members are writing personal letters to Senators Frank J. Lausche and Stephen M. Young. The Jaycees recognize the fact that Replogle alone spends more than two million dollars annually in the local area for payroll, materials and services.

Kenneth Smith, first vice president, reported presenting the King and Queen plaques at the Pickaway County Fair. These plaques are donated by the Jaycees.

Ronald Culp, 475 N. Court St., was installed as a new member. The Jaycee Junior Golf Award was presented to local winner, Brent Bell.

Comrade . . .

Industry keeps going under temporary agreements which end Nov. 1 or 30 days after a steel strike settlement whichever comes first.

It is unlikely that the steel strike will be permitted to run until Sept. 15, scheduled start of Khrushchev's visit.

The effects of the strike still were limited mainly to the steel industry itself and directly related industries, such as railroads and mining companies.

An unofficial tally of layoffs in other industries put the number at 100,000. In addition, 500,000 steel workers were on strike.

There were some reports of declines in retail business in major steel centers, but department store sales throughout the country ran six per cent over last year in the week ended Aug. 1, latest for which figures are available.

Electricity output in the latest week set a record. Check transactions—a good measure of public buying — topped the same week last year by 7.5 per cent. However, freight car loadings fell 12.6 per cent under last year and 26.5 per cent under two years ago.

Corporate earnings reports continued to emphasize the boom. A First National City Bank of New York compilation disclosed 800 corporations earned 56 per cent more in the first half this year than last.

And the future looked bright to economists, as witness this prophecy by Dun's Review and Modern Industry: "Physical output in the last quarter will climb to new record levels. . . . More workers will be needed to accommodate this rise in production, and the number of unemployed will continue to drift downward."

Weird Planes Descend on Illinois City

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Some weird airplanes, born of the do-it-yourself impulse, have dropped from the sky on this city.

They are airplanes built in barns, basements and garages by people with time and money to spend and an irresistible urge to put something different in the sky. "There are darn few things here that look and act like real airplanes," one observer said.

One has four wings, another is powered with an automobile engine. One tiny biplane, "The Flea," is 15 feet long. A Detroit man flew his creation half way here and drove the rest of the distance on the highways.

The strange things began flying and driving in earlier this week with the opening of the annual convention of the Experimental Aircraft Assn., whose 50,000 members must rebuild conventional aircraft or start from scratch to qualify for membership.

Most build airplanes for the same reason others build boats in basements or put dual carburetors on stripped-down cars—the pleasure of creating something new and different.

But some, like W. J. Bryan of Detroit, owner of an aircraft he says can do several hundred miles an hour in the air and 52 m.p.h. on the highway, claim significant breakthroughs in aeronautical engineering.

Bryan says his "Rotobill," which he can fly or drive after eight minutes of rearranging various parts, is "the pioneering answer to the needs of dual transportation all in one—flying and driving."

Former City Slicker Owner Of Fair's Only Twin Calves

By JOAN LISK
Herald Staff Writer

From city slicker to country cow hand is the story of Chuck Burkart, 12. Two years ago he moved from Cleveland to Pickaway County where he lives with his mother, Vernadine Burkart, Route 2, Ashville.

In 1957 Chuck's mother bought him a heifer, named Lady Triumph, for a 4-H project. Chuck has shown the heifer for the last two years in the Pickaway County Fair. In March, during National 4-H Club Week, Lady Triumph gave birth to two white faced beauties named Lynx and Jinks. So Chuck brought Lady Triumph and family to the fair this year. Lynx and Jinks, being the only twin calves at the fair, got plenty of attention from curious spectators.

Chuck is very proud of his twin girls but hopes Lady Triumph makes this her last set of twins.

Gov. Long Gets Dun for Use of Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force today billed Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana for $4,251 for unauthorized use of National Guard planes.

A Pentagon statement did not specify the trips involved, but presumably one of them was the flight on which Mrs. Long and others took the governor to a Texas mental clinic.

The statement said that the governor has been notified by the National Guard Bureau that the secretary of the Air Force has directed the reimbursement of the dollar amount calculated on a standing table of charges.

It said two transport aircraft supplied to the Air National Guard of Louisiana had been flown in violation of Air Force and National Guard regulations for a total of 29 hours and 50 minutes for one and for 12 hours and 55 minutes by another.

The unauthorized flights were described as having been in the months of April, May, June and July.

Specific dates and routes were not given.

Regulations generally limit use of such aircraft to flights on National Guard business and in the interest of national security.

On May 30 Long was flown in a National Guard plane from Baton Rouge, La., the state capital, to Galveston, Tex., where he entered a psychiatric clinic.

A National Guard plane also was used when Long returned from Galveston to Louisiana June 17.

DiSalle Sees Inmate Transfer Needed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Inspection of Toledo State Hospital showed that a number of inmates should be in other institutions, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle told his cabinet today.

The governor reported on Thursday's visit to the hospital and an aerial inspection of highway projects in that area.

He flew to Toledo for the 76th birthday of his mother, Mrs. Asunda DiSalle.

The governor reported that about 900 of the 2,900 Toledo Hospital inmates properly belong elsewhere.

"I think that when our nursing and alcoholic treatment programs get going, we can do something about it," the governor said.

day. He is recovering in the hospital here while doctors study his reactions to what may have been the highest altitude parachute jump ever made.

On the night of July 26 Col. Rankin was on his way back to Beaufort from Boston Naval Air Station on a high-altitude navigation flight. His F8U Crusader fighter's engine suddenly stopped, for unknown reasons, while he was in a gentle climb at 47,000 feet.

"I had no power, radio, instruments or control over the plane," he said.

Rankin ejected himself from the plane.

The pressure at 47,000 feet is much lower than at sea level, the temperature much colder. "I felt a violent decompression, my whole body expanded. It was freezing cold. It had been 75 degrees in the cockpit, outside it was 5 below zero. I couldn't keep my eyes open and my nose was bleeding freely. My hands got numb and one wrist and ankle got frostbitten."

"The chute is set by barometric pressure to open at 10,000 feet. After a fall of about two minutes I felt a sharp jerk."

Then he entered the thunderstorm.

"The air currents carried me up and down. There was hail and severe lightning. I was afraid I wouldn't make it. It seemed like an eternity."

After more than half an hour of bobbing up and down in the storm, Rankin realized the air was warmer and calmer. Suddenly, he broke out of the overcast about 300 feet above the ground, and spotted trees. It was the first time he had seen the ground since he ejected from the plane.

He struck a tree and his helmeted head hit the trunk, but he was not hurt. He disconnected his chute straps "and the next thing I knew I was on the deck."

By his watch, he knew it was 40 minutes since he bailed out.

Rankin looked around and finally found a road that took him to a paved highway.

"Then was the most frustrating thing of all. Cars kept passing me by. I was on the point of lying down in the road, but I was afraid they might run over me."

"Finally a little boy in one of the cars recognized my flight helmet and his father stopped. The man—his name was Judson Dunning—took me to a hospital in Ahsokie, N. C."

Col. Rankin also broke his right hand. He's not sure when it happened.

Rankin, a bachelor, was a ground officer in World War II and flew during the Korean War.

Castro--Man of Mystery

There is an element of mystery in the personality and purposes of Fidel Castro. After several months of authoritarianism there are definite signs that Castro likes the taste of it. His theatrical resignation and the implorings of his cabinet to return obviously appealed to his ego.

In all these antics one sees resemblances to Hitler in his early days. This weak-chinned demagogue has soaring ambitions, and that makes him dangerous in the explosive Caribbean today.

Those with memories long enough and truthful enough will recall the mirth Hitler's posturings and Chaplinesque moustache evoked when he first came to power. The world was to rue the day.

Castro has been accused of being a communist. His denials have been evasive. The Cuban revolution is nationalistic. This word has regained a certain respectability since it was applied to the aims of Hitler and Mussolini. In its more vulgar forms, hammered into slogans for arousing unthinking mobs, it is still as dangerous as ever.

There might be less criticism of Castro if he kept his reforming zeal within the borders of his own country. Since this apparently is not to be, it would be naive not to expect trouble.

No 'Working Class' Left

In the midst of current issues and controversies, long term progress is sometimes obscured. That is often true today when a labor union becomes absorbed in what it regards as critical demands for higher pay and benefits.

The U. S. Department of Labor has brought this into focus through a study of the buying habits of the American people. Principal conclusion is that the buying power of the wages of the average worker is roughly three times greater than it was in 1900, after allowances are made for higher prices.

Then the workers put in 64 to 72 hours per week, with overtime rates of pay unheard of. Now they work a basic 40-hour week, often less, get premium pay for overtime, paid vacations, insurance, welfare benefits and a pension.

This does not apply to all the 65 million in the working force but to most of them, organized and unorganized.

The former separate identity of a "working class" in the U. S. has all but faded away, the report says. It is well to look back occasionally to see the changes that have occurred.

What's in Store for Khrushchev?

By George Sokolsky

It will be difficult for important elements in the American population to welcome Nikita Khrushchev. Unlike Mikoyan who masqueraded as a tourist or Kozlov who headed a Fair, Khrushchev comes as a guest of the nation, formally invited by the President upon the recommendation of the Vice President.

Mikoyan and Kozlov came as private persons, no matter what their rank may be in their own country; Khrushchev comes as the head of a state.

In the old days of good manners and acknowledged propriety, an insult to the head of a state meant war. In these days of social laxity, when anything goes, an official apology would probably be a sufficient accounting for an insult. On the other hand, what is the advantage of insulting Khrushchev; it only means that when, according to contract if not protocol, President Eisenhower returns Khrushchev's visit, there will be a quid pro quo, Russian fashion?

For those who are emotionally or spiritually opposed to Khrushchev, to Communism or to Soviet Russia, the most that they can do is to stay away from any entertainment for Khrushchev. To cause a riot would only damage the United States in a critical hour.

I know that some of my anti-Communist friends and associates will complain that I am giving up a great cause. For more than a year now, agencies of government have been active paying the way for the Khrushchev visit, should it ever eventuate.

Although Anastas Mikoyan came disguised as a tourist, with all sorts of publicized bombast, such as motoring to Washington and stopping at a Howard Johnson restaurant so incongruous that it immediately appeared in the press, a committee of bankers and businessmen, meeting in New York, had prepared every step in his entertainment at the suggestion, if not request, of our government. And whereas he was clouted with eggs and tomatoes in some places, on the whole, he was received as though he were a visiting monarch. Kozlov did not do so well in this country but he, too, received a well-prepared reception.

On the other hand, Vice President Richard Nixon was received in Soviet Russia, not only by officials but by the people, as one of their country's most distinguished guests. Khrushchev practically gave up his time to Nixon and while they argued and bawled at each other, it was done in a friendly spirit. There were no ultimatums. There were no threats. Khrushchev even drank Pepsi-Cola, which for a vodka drinker must have been something!

We have, for a period of at least three months, been as close to war as perhaps we ever shall be without actual fighting. What Nixon accomplished in Russia was not historical because he has convinced Khrushchev that the punch is still in our fist and that we are not afraid, but that we want peace. He had been preceded by several Americans, but they were unofficial and made little impression on Khrushchev. Certainly Adlai Stevenson, Hubert Humphrey and Averell Harriman made no impact on either country, as well they could not have since they were unofficial.

Nixon is the second man in our government and could be the first by a missed heart beat. Khrushchev had either to show him courtesy or insult him. Khrushchev extended unexpected courtesies to Nixon which had to be noted by Washington.

We face a further problem: It has become obvious at Geneva that Khrushchev will not permit anyone but himself to negotiate concerning Germany, Berlin, Iran, Formosa or any other outstanding issue over which war can ensue. If we do not care whether these questions are settled or not, we can give the Russians their way or go to war. The alternative is to meet with Khrushchev. This, the British demand. This the West Germans regard as necessary. This we have consistently refused to do. What we face then is this:

A. We meet with Khrushchev; B. We do not meet with Khrushchev and nothing is settled; C. We have a war.

The businessmen who see dollars in all this are just cheap-skates who sell out their country cheaply. The people who think in terms of history and humanity must recognize in these visits a final effort to avert a devastating war and must welcome the opportunity to find a formula for peace in this century. It may be our last chance.

Willoughby Paper Beckons Khrush

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP)—The West Lake County News-Herald is awaiting a reply from the Kremlin to its twice-offered invitation for Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit here.

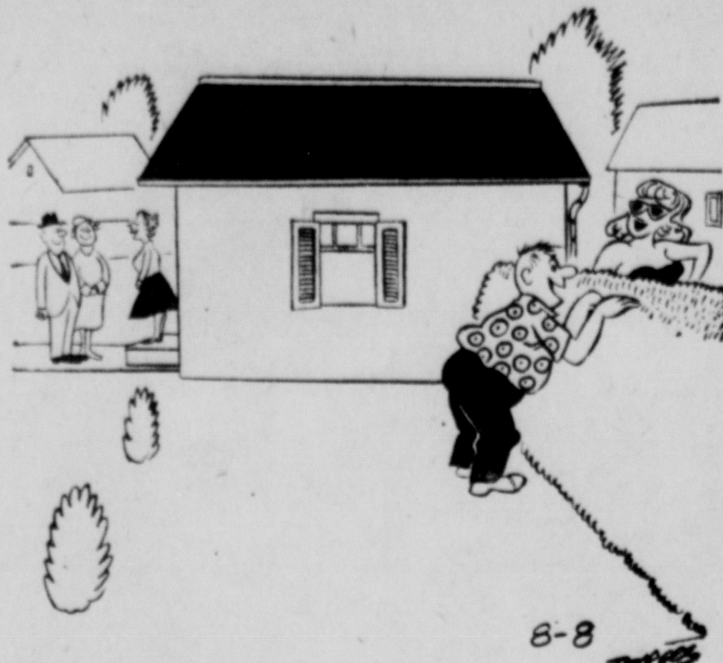

The paper's editor, Erwin Maus III, sent a cablegram Tuesday night and followed it up with a telephone call Thursday. Maus pointed out that if the Premier visits Cleveland, as he has been invited to do by industrialist Cyrus Eaton, it would be very easy to spend a short time here.

He said a poll conducted by the News-Herald showed local citizens are interested in seeing Khrushchev. He also declared there are plenty of housewives who could demonstrate that the American kitchen in the current Moscow exhibit is a true picture of American life.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

HAVE YOU EVER longed to see with your own eyes the famous Indian rope trick? You never will, insists Will Dexter, in "This Is Magic," because it can't be done. An English millionaire had a standing offer of 5,000 pounds for anybody who could perform the fabled illusion, and agents of the Prince of Wales scoured India in search of a magician who could oblige—but people who claimed to have seen the trick never could remember where or when! The myth goes back to an Indian legend written 500 years ago.

Two city dogs had a passing conversation at a friendly curbstone. "What's your name?" inquired one. "I'm not quite sure," admitted the other, "but I think it's Down Boy."

A Yankee reporter, investigating conditions in the South, writes that there is a definite movement in Mississippi to form a second party.

Insulin Check Necessary

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

How's your insulin? If you're over 40 and overweight maybe you had better check.

Insulin is a hormone manufactured by the pancreas. As long as the pancreas continues to supply adequate amounts, you are okay.

But if it fails to turn out enough of the secretion, you are in trouble. Your body cells can't utilize food sugars—and you have diabetes.

The foods we eat, you see, supply sugars and starches which the digestive juices turn into glucose, a form of sugar. But to make the conversion, the digestive juices need the aid of insulin.

The glucose is absorbed into the blood stream to nourish your tissues and to supply us with energy. Without an adequate supply of insulin, however, the sugar accumulates in the blood and spills over into the urine.

Thus diabetes is a condition which deprives the body of its ability to use sugar.

Diabetes still is a killer, make no mistake about that. It ranks seventh among diseases as a cause of death. But half a century ago a diagnosis of diabetes was a sentence of certain death.

Now we can take insulin from the pancreas of animals and substitute it for human insulin. Through oral administration or by injections, coupled with diet and control of exercise, we can control diabetes.

We can control it if we can detect it. Unfortunately, a great many persons are diabetic and don't even realize it.

This is ironic because it is so easy to diagnose the disease. Simply by checking a sample of urine, your own family physician can determine if it contains sugar. If it does, he will draw a little blood for a sugar test. This will prove conclusively whether or not you have diabetes.

While diabetes is found in all age groups, it is most prevalent among those over 40. And there is no doubt that overweight is a contributing factor, particularly for those in middle life.

Once again I would like to remind you of the symptoms of diabetes: increased appetite, loss of weight, weakness, dry skin irritability, frequent urination, undue thirst, leg pains and foot ulcers.

If you have some or all of these complaints, better see your doctor right away.

Question and Answer

L. L.: Several years ago I had polio and was cured, but shortly afterward I developed asthma. It is so severe that I am a nervous wreck from the coughing.

Could the polio have brought on this asthma? Can you tell me anything to help this condition?

Answer: Ordinarily, there is no connection between polio and asthma. The latter is often a manifestation of allergy and is aggravated by emotional and nervous factors. You should have a thorough medical examination with allergy tests if necessary.

Much can be done by your doctor to relieve this condition.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Is there one word which describes the difference between confident and cocky? Sure. It's K-h-r-u-s-h-c-h-e-v. But the Soviet Premier still acts like a boy with two heads. He crows out of one and cries out of the other.

While Premier Nikita Khrushchev feels himself getting more powerful, as he surely is, he also shows startling signs of self-conscious inferiority. An example is what happened to the display of American goods at the fair in Moscow.

It's no discredit to the Soviet Union, which started late, that it is still far behind the United States in industrial production, particularly in consumer goods.

But Khrushchev's government—which means the Premier himself—through its controlled press tried to belittle the evidence of American production at the fair and even set up a fair of its own to distract the Russian people.

Nevertheless, here's how Khrushchev grew from confident to cocky: 1955—Just before he went to the Geneva summit meeting, when he was No. 2 man behind Premier Nikolai Bulganin, he said the Soviet Union wasn't going to Geneva out of weakness, it didn't have "broken legs," and "if you don't want to talk seriously, we can wait and hold on."

1959—Just before coming here for his September meeting with President Eisenhower, Khrushchev says he won't be coming with rockets in his pockets.

The 1955 statement was defensive, as if he felt the Allies were looking down their noses. Then the Soviet Union was ringed with American bomber bases—as it still is—but then it had no missiles and was trying to get production up.

Now the Soviet economy is working overtime although still behind this country in agriculture and industry. But now the Soviet Union has missiles and has surged ahead in their development.

Khrushchev's present cockiness isn't sudden, it's been growing. A little over two years ago, in a TV interview, he told the people of this country: "Your grandchildren will live under socialism."

Why did he suddenly need a bigger hat?

First, he's Premier now. He won an intraparty fight, ousted Bulganin and took his job, and tossed his rivals into Soviet limbo. He's the undisputed No. 1 man, the boss. More than that happened. Soviet military strength grew meanwhile.

In the fall of 1956 with one statement the Soviet Union proclaimed to the world that only two powers counted, the United States and itself. With one statement it set out to relegate those old empires and world-rulers, Britain and France, to second-rate roles.

That was when it threatened to smash them and Israel if they didn't stop their attack on Egypt. Eisenhower saved the day by pressuring all three of them into stopping their war.

And in 1957 the Soviet Union sent up its first satellites, beating the United States into this field of the future. It went on to one achievement after another, including a moon-shot.

So Khrushchev really was rubbing it in when he said he wouldn't come here with rockets in his pockets.

As time moved, Soviet fear of American long-range bombers may not have diminished. But its own confidence—in military strength, at least—bounced ahead with its progress in long-range and intermediate missiles.

Two years after Geneva Khrushchev was feeling so sure of himself that he challenged the United States to a "peaceful rocket" contest. He said a third World War would be the worst and would be fought on American soil.

That was in November, 1957, after the first Soviet satellites had gone up. Just a year later, on Nov. 14, 1958, Khrushchev was challenging the West to an all-out production race.

He predicted the new Soviet production plan would result in the world's highest living standards.

And just a few days after that—Nov. 27, 1958—he really challenged the West to show its strength and determination by threatening to force the Allies to pull their troops out of West Berlin if they didn't go voluntarily.

This put the West in such a box—because it would be so terrifyingly difficult to avoid being forced out of Berlin without war—that it sought through talks to find a peaceful solution and avoid a showdown. The talks lasted weeks.

They got nowhere. Finally Eisenhower, to avoid a showdown or at least postpone it, invited Khrushchev here for talks. Since this was exactly what the Russian wanted, it's no wonder he can swagger sitting down.

Toledo Building

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Construction of a new downtown office building to house the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.'s district office was announced today.

The three-story glass, aluminum and porcelain paneled structure has been designed to blend with the mall concept of architecture, said a joint statement by Dr. Norris Gillette, owner and developer of the property, and H. C. Taylor, gas company district manager.

The investment will total $1,280,000, the announcement said.

The company has entered into a 25-year lease arrangement with Dr. Gillette, with a renewal option. Construction will start after demolition of structures which now occupy the site.

Castro--Man of Mystery

There is an element of mystery in the personality and purposes of Fidel Castro. After several months of authoritarianism there are definite signs that Castro likes the taste of it. His theatrical resignation and the implorings of his cabinet to return obviously appealed to his ego.

In all these antics one sees resemblances to Hitler in his early days. This weak-chinned demagogue has soaring ambitions, and that makes him dangerous in the explosive Caribbean today.

Those with memories long enough and truthful enough will recall the mirth Hitler's posturings and Chaplinesque moustache evoked when he first came to power. The world was to rue the day.

Castro has been accused of being a communist. His denials have been evasive. The Cuban revolution is nationalistic. This

In the midst of current issues and controversies, long term progress is sometimes obscured. That is often true today when a labor union becomes absorbed in what it regards as critical demands for higher pay and benefits.

The U. S. Department of Labor has brought this into focus through a study of the buying habits of the American people. Principal conclusion is that the buying power of the wages of the average worker is roughly three times greater than it was in 1900, after allowances are made for higher prices.

What's in Store for Khrushchev? By George Sokolsky

It will be difficult for important elements in the American population to welcome Nikita Khrushchev. Unlike Mikoyan who masqueraded as a tourist or Kozlov who headed a Fair, Khrushchev comes as a guest of the nation, formally invited by the President upon the recommendation of the Vice President. Mikoyan and Kozlov came as private persons, no matter what their rank may be in their own country; Khrushchev comes as the head of a state.

In the old days of good manners and acknowledged propriety, an insult to the head of a state meant war. In these days of social laxity, when anything goes, an official apology would probably be a sufficient accounting for an insult. On the other hand, what is the advantage of insulting Khrushchev; it only means that when, according to contract if not protocol, President Eisenhower returns Khrushchev's visit, there will be a quid pro quo, Russian fashion?

For those who are emotionally or spiritually opposed to Khrushchev, to Communism or to Soviet Russia, the most that they can do is to stay away from any entertainment for Khrushchev. To cause a riot would only damage the United States in a critical hour.

I know that some of my anti-Communist friends and associates will complain that I am giving up a great cause. For more than a year now, agencies of government have been active paying the way for the Khrushchev visit, should it ever eventuate.

Although Anastas Mikoyan came disguised as a tourist, with all sorts of publicized bombast, such as motoring to Washington and stopping at a Howard Johnson restaurant so incongruous that it immediately appeared in the press, a committee of bankers and businessmen, meeting in New York, had prepared every step in his entertainment at the suggestion, if not request, of our government. And whereas he was clouted with eggs and tomatoes in some places, on the whole, he was received as though he were a visiting monarch. Kozlov did not do so well in this country but he, too, received a well-prepared reception.

On the other hand, Vice President Richard Nixon was received in Soviet Russia, not only by officials but by the people, as one of their country's most distinguished guests. Khrushchev practically gave up his time to Nixon and while they argued and bawled at each other, it was done in a friendly spirit. There were no ultimatums. There were no threats. Khrushchev even drank Pepsi-Cola, which for a vodka drinker must have been something!

We have, for a period of at least three months, been as close to war as perhaps we ever shall be without actual fighting. What Nixon accomplished in Russia will become historical because word has regained a certain respectability since it was applied to the aims of Hitler and Mussolini. In its more vulgar forms, hammered into slogans for arousing unthinking mobs, it is still as dangerous as ever.

There might be less criticism of Castro if he kept his reforming zeal within the borders of his own country. Since this apparently is not to be, it would be naive not to expect trouble.

Courtin' Main

Anybody who is calm these days probably isn't well.

Then the workers put in 64 to 72 hours per week, with overtime rates of pay unheard of. Now they work a basic 40-hour week, often less, get premium pay for overtime, paid vacations, insurance, welfare benefits and a pension.

This does not apply to all the 65 million in the working force but to most of them, organized and unorganized.

The former separate identity of a "working class" in the U. S. has all but faded away, the report says. It is well to look back occasionally to see the changes that have occurred.

he has convinced Khrushchev that the punch is still in our fist and that we are not afraid, but that we want peace. He had been preceded by several Americans, but they were unofficial and made little impression on Khrushchev. Certainly Adlai Stevenson, Hubert Humphrey and Averell Harriman made no impact on either country, as well they could not have since they were unofficial.

Nixon is the second man in our government and could be the first by a missed heart beat. Khrushchev had either to show him courtesy or insult him. Khrushchev extended unexpected courtesies to Nixon which had to be noted by Washington.

We face a further problem: it has become obvious at Geneva that Khrushchev will not permit anyone but himself to negotiate concerning Germany, Berlin, Iran, Formosa or any other outstanding issue over which war can ensue. If we do not care whether these questions are settled or not, we can give the Russians their way or go to war. The alternative is to meet with Khrushchev. This, the British demand, this the West Germans regard as necessary. This we have consistently refused to do. What we face then is this:

A. We meet with Khrushchev;

B. We do not meet with Khrushchev and nothing is settled;

C. We have a war.

The businessmen who see dollars in all this are just cheap-skates who sell out their country cheaply. The people who think in terms of history and humanity must recognize in these visits a final effort to avert a devastating war and must welcome the opportunity to find a formula for peace in this century. It may be our last chance.

Willoughby Paper Beckons Khrush

WILLOUGHBY, Ohio (AP)—The West Lake County News-Herald is awaiting a reply from the Kremlin to its twice-offered invitation for Premier Nikita Khrushchev to visit here.

The paper's editor, Erwin Maus III, sent a cablegram Tuesday night and followed it up with a telephone call Thursday. Maus pointed out that if the Premier visits Cleveland, as he has been invited to do by industrialist Cyrus Eaton it would be very easy to spend a short time here.

He said a poll conducted by the News-Herald showed local citizens are interested in seeing Khrushchev. He also declared there are plenty of housewives who could demonstrate that the American kitchen in the current Moscow exhibit is a true picture of American life.

Why did he suddenly need a bigger hat?

First, he's Premier now. He won an intraparty fight, booted out Bulganin and took his job, and tossed his rivals into Soviet limbo. He's the undisputed No. 1 man, the boss. More than that happened. Soviet military strength grew meanwhile.

In the fall of 1956 with one statement the Soviet Union proclaimed to the world that only two powers counted, the United States and itself. With one statement it set out to relegate those old empires and world-rulers, Britain and France, to second-rate roles.

That was when it threatened to smash them and Israel if they didn't stop their attack on Egypt. Eisenhower saved the day by pressuring all three of them into stopping their war.

And in 1957 the Soviet Union sent up its first satellites, beating the United States into this field of the future. It went on to one achievement after another, including a moon-shot.

So Khrushchev really was rubbing it in when he said he wouldn't come here with rockets in his pockets.

As time moved, Soviet fear of American long-range bombers may not have diminished. But its own confidence—in military strength, at least—bounced ahead with its progress in long-range and intermediate missiles.

Two years after Geneva Khrushchev was feeling so sure of himself that he challenged the United States to a "peaceful rocket" contest. He said a third World War would be the worst and would be fought on American soil.

That was in November, 1957,

after the first Soviet satellites had gone up. Just a year later, on Nov. 14, 1958, Khrushchev was challenging the West to an all-out production race.

He predicted the new Soviet production plan would result in the world's highest living standards.

And just a few days after that—Nov. 27, 1958—he really challenged the West to show its strength and determination by threatening to force the Allies to pull their troops out of West Berlin if they didn't go voluntarily.

This put the West in such a box—because it would be so terribly difficult to avoid being forced out of Berlin without war—that it sought through talks to find a peaceful solution and avoid a showdown. The talks lasted weeks.

They got nowhere. Finally Eisenhower, to avoid a showdown or at least postpone it, invited Khrushchev here for talks. Since this was exactly what the Russian wanted, it's no wonder he can swagger sitting down.

Now the Soviet economy is working overtime although still behind this country in agriculture and industry. But now the Soviet Union has missiles and has surged ahead in their development.

Khrushchev's present cockiness isn't sudden, it's been growing. A little over two years ago, in a TV interview, he told the people of this country: "Your grandchildren will live under socialism."

Boy's Business Venture Is Flop

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy's first venture into business ended Thursday with a warning, parole and confiscation of his $30 worth of marijuana seed.

The youth told Juvenile Court Judge French Clements he had gone to California to join the Merchant Marine, was turned down, and decided to go into business with a former Evansville friend he met there.

They bought the seed, and he shipped it home, intending to plant it along Pigeon Creek and send his crop back to his California friend for sale. However, the youth's father received the seed, had it identified, and turned it over to police.

Southern Iowa Hit Hard by Flood

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—Southern Iowa farmers counted their crop losses in millions of dollars and the city of Fort Madison struggled to get free of a sea of mud today in the wake of torrential rain and floods.

In six hours Wednesday night this Mississippi River town of 15,000 was drenched with 9.42 inches of rain. Falls up to 11 inches soaked farms and small towns elsewhere in southern Iowa.

Fort Madison was especially hard hit because three creeks running through the city rushed out of their banks, and backed-up storm sewers sent water pouring into hundreds of homes.

Union Staff Members Pay Off Back Taxes

DETROIT (AP)—Staff members of the United Auto Workers Union were reported today to have paid thousands of dollars to the Internal Revenue Service as back taxes for 1955-57 on union expense accounts or special allowances.

UAW President Walter Reuther was said to have initiated a joint effort by the government and the union to reach an understanding.

Flying Parsons Cover Wide Area Parishes with Planes

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

They used to call the Rev. Gil Dodds the Flying Parson because he could run a mile in a track suit faster than most men of his time.

Now, with private air travel a commonplace thing, churches are developing a breed of real flying parsons, clergymen able to serve large, scattered parishes through the use of airplanes.

The United Church of Christ has at least two.

The Rev. John R. Kelly of Broadus, Mont., serves six congregations scattered over an area of 4,000 square miles, flying his own two-seater plane over the longer legs of his parish rounds.

The Rev. Alan O. Inglis of Flasher, N. D., travels about 4,000 miles a month by car and single-engine plane to perform ministerial duties in his sprawling parish.

The Rev. Mr. Kelly has to shoo cows off his landing strip in Broadus before taking off.

"The runway is in the middle of a cow pasture," he says, "and the cows haven't forgotten they were there first."

None of the fields in the Rev. Mr. Kelly's Powder River parish are lighted for night landings, but he has solved the problem in a novel way.

He buzzes the town, and parishioners get out their automobiles and hustle to the field to light the landing strip with their headlights.

The Rev. Mr. Inglis recently outlined a typical Sunday of services for his five scattered congregations in Flasher Larger Parish.

He's up before dawn and hurrying to the airport in Flasher with his Bible, church bulletins, a tape recorder and, during the winter, a can of heated oil to get the plane started.

By 7 a. m., he's in Solen, N. D., landing on a little-used road. Then worship services for some 40 persons and a church breakfast of coffee and homemade rolls.

Carson, N. D., is the next stop. There, the Rev. Mr. Inglis sets down on the high school football field. Services in Carson start at 9:15 a. m.

He's back in Flasher for 11 a. m. services, occasionally experiencing a delay while automobiles are hauled off the landing field. Hot-rodgers use the strip for drag racing on warm days.

After a quick sandwich at the parsonage, he's off for Selfridge, 30 minutes away across rough terrain on the fringe of the Badland area. Services there are at 2 p. m.

The last service of the Rev. Mr. Inglis' busy Sunday is in Shields, which he refers to as a paradoxical town.

"The town is dying. Only the church and the bar remain open."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Boy's Business
Venture Is Flop

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy's first venture into business ended Thursday with a warning, parole and confiscation of his $30 worth of marijuana seed.

The youth told Juvenile Court Judge French Clements he had gone to California to join the Merchant Marine, was turned down, and decided to go into business with a former Evansville friend he met there.

They bought the seed, and he shipped it home, intending to plant it along Pigeon Creek and send his crop back to his California friend for sale. However, the youth's father received the seed, had it identified, and turned it over to police.

Southern Iowa
Hit Hard by Flood

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP)—Southern Iowa farmers counted their crop losses in millions of dollars and the city of Fort Madison struggled to get free of a sea of mud today in the wake of torrential rain and floods.

In six hours Wednesday night this Mississippi River town of 15,000 was drenched with 9.42 inches of rain. Falls up to 11 inches soaked farms and small towns elsewhere in southern Iowa.

Fort Madison was especially hard hit because three creeks running through the city rushed out of their banks, and backed-up storm sewers sent water pouring into hundreds of homes.

Union Staff Members
Pay Off Back Taxes

DETROIT (AP)—Staff members of the United Auto Workers Union were reported today to have paid thousands of dollars to the Internal Revenue Service as back taxes for 1955-57 on union expense accounts or special allowances.

UAW President Walter Reuther was said to have initiated a joint effort by the government and the union to reach an understanding.

Flying Parsons Cover Wide
Area Parishes with Planes

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

They used to call the Rev. Gil Dadds the Flying Parson because he could run a mile in a track suit faster than most men of his time.

Now, with private air travel a commonplace thing, churches are developing a breed of real flying parsons, clergymen able to serve large, scattered parishes through the use of airplanes.

The United Church of Christ has at least two.

The Rev. John R. Kelly of Broadus, Mont., serves six congregations scattered over an area of 4,000 square miles, flying his own two-seater plane over the longer legs of his parish rounds.

The Rev. Alan O. Inglis of Flasher, N. D., travels about 4,000 miles a month by car and single-engine plane to perform ministerial duties in his sprawling parish.

The Rev. Mr. Kelly has to shoo cows off his landing strip in Broadus before taking off.

"The runway is in the middle of a cow pasture," he says, "and the cows haven't forgotten they were there first."

None of the fields in the Rev. Mr. Kelly's Powder River parish are lighted for night landings, but he has solved the problem in a novel way.

He buzzes the town, and parishioners get out their automobiles and hustle to the field to light the landing strip with their headlights.

The Rev. Mr. Inglis recently outlined a typical Sunday of services for his five scattered congregations in Flasher Larger Parish.

He's up before dawn and hurrying to the airport in Flasher with his Bible, church bulletins, a tape recorder and, during the winter, a can of heated oil to get the plane started.

By 7 a. m., he's in Solen, N. D., landing on a little-used road. Then worship services for some 40 persons and a church breakfast of coffee and homemade rolls.

Carson, N. D., is the next stop. There, the Rev. Mr. Inglis sets down on the high school football field. Services in Carson start at 9:15 a. m.

He's back in Flasher for 11 a. m. services, occasionally experiencing a delay while automobiles are hauled off the landing field. Hot-rodgers use the strip for drag racing on warm days.

After a quick sandwich at the parsonage, he's off for Selfridge, 30 minutes away across rough terrain on the fringe of the Badland area. Services there are at 2 p. m.

The last service of the Rev. Mr. Inglis' busy Sunday is in Shields, which he refers to as a paradoxical town.

"The town is dying. Only the church and the bar remain open."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Fall Suits Tailored for Town and Travel

A HANDSOME SUIT of gray-and-white checks by Ben Reig has long fitted top.

DAVIDOW DESIGNED this selva-edge suit costume in royal and white tweed.

By SUSAN BARDEN

Haute couture designers have come up this season with a collection of costumes and suits that appear to be the smartest and most wearable clothes seen in a long time.

One checked woolen suit is sure to win special favor for tailored types. It has a fitted, hip-length coat detailed with a four-button closing and two low-placed pocket flaps. The matching skirt is slim.

Another style is for those who prefer box jackets. It features a short, square-cut coat with its four pockets and sleeves trimmed with gold buttons. Underneath is a royal blue silk crepe blouse and a slender skirt.

Though French in conception, a navy suit was really planned for the American market. It is a suave outfit that can be worn either as an ensemble or a suit.

The coat has wide lapels and three-quarter sleeves. Its two-button belt is placed high in front and the skirt is straight.

Teamster Dispute Booked in Court
CINCINNATI (AP) — A showdown in Police Court is scheduled Monday in the rebellion that erupted in the ranks of Cincinnati's big Teamsters Union Local 100.

Judge A. L. Leubbers agreed Friday to continue charges of assault and battery and disorderly conduct against six union leaders.

And Judge Charles Bell continued until Tuesday a Common Pleas Court hearing on a court order that bars the rebels from entering Teamster headquarters here or interfering with union business.

The court action stems from a brawl at the union hall last July 29 when a group of union members and officers tangled during an executive board meeting.

Don't Draw the Line Too Thin

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a family argument once and for all: My husband has six married brothers and two married sisters. On different occasions we wives have to introduce one another to friends. I know that my husband's sisters are my sisters-in-law, and my husband's brothers are my brothers-in-law. But what about the women who are married to my husband's brothers? And the men who are married to my husband's sisters. What are they to me and how should they be introduced?

DEAR EVELYN: Technically, only your husband's sisters are your sisters-in-law and the wives of your husband's brothers are your husband's sisters-in-law. But people who point out this fine distinction in making introductions, appear eager to remove the relationship as far away as possible. The wise wife accepts her husband's sisters-in-law as her own.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this question is too stupid to answer. I am a married man of 33 with black hair, brown eyes and dark complexion. My wife is 31 and she also has black hair, brown eyes and dark complexion. Our youngest child has blond hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion. The child is three years old. Is it too late to find out through a blood test whether this child is mine or not? Or does the blood test have to be taken when the child is an infant?

IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: A blood test can be taken any time with equal success. The blood type of an individual never changes.

DEAR ABBY: My husband sells soft drinks at the Arena where they put on boxing and wrestling matches. He used to come right home from work. But lately he's been coming home at 3 and 4 in the morning. He told me that he's been driving a lady wrestler home and she invites him in for "coffee and." I told him I didn't think this was right. He said I didn't have to worry. What do you say?

SLIGHTLY JEALOUS

DEAR SLIGHTLY: Don't worry about the coffee. It's the "and"

Nylon Carpeting Now Improved

By ELEANOR ROSS

Plenty of news in floor carpeting—just as there are constant improvements and novelties in almost every phase of home furnishings.

A new type of carpet, recently introduced, sounds most promising.

This carpet is woven of a newly developed fiber which the trade knows as "501 continuous filament fiber" and which, reduced to understandable terms, means extra bulk resiliency. It seems that this floor covering has a rich, textured look and is less apt to fuzz up or mat than the earlier versions of nylon carpeting.

All twenty colors are delightful. The hues include a soft melon-green that has infinite decorator possibilities and there are such shades, too, as yellow-green, sea-spray, as well as the full range of beige and brown tones.

This improved nylon carpeting is very easy to keep clean. Nylon and suds have always been the best companions and whatever can be kept clean with suds is a good buy, whether it's carpets, slip covers, curtains or draperies.

So, if you're looking for new carpeting that, while the initial outlay is a bit high, will wear and wear, and which is easy to keep looking fresh and new, consider the newest addition to the nylon carpet family.

Interesting things are constantly happening in the plastic upholstery field and the new offerings are a world apart from the first articles on the market.

Lately, several big companies in this field have brought out new patterns in vinyl plastic. Because many of these new designs are more formal, they are keyed to the most gracious of room settings.

Colors, too, have gone in for a big helping of sophistication—shades, for instance, such as olive green and cerulean blue, in addition to copper, gold and silver.

Surfaces and textures have undergone a transformation, too. Rich brocade textures, scroll patterns—even a faithful copy of goatskin—are among the newest. The crinkly pattern of the goatskin is especially interesting.

All these, of course, are easy to keep clean. Just wipe off the vinyl upholstery with suds, then with a clean, damp cloth and wipe dry. The plastic will stay fresh and handsome indefinitely.

DEAR ABBY: I have been wanting to write you my problem for a long time but I have been told that if I do not sign my name you cannot accept or answer my letter. My problem is so very personal that I would not want to have it printed anywhere. Please tell me through the paper if you accept letters without names. And what do you do with the letters after you get them?

MISS NO NAME

DEAR MISS: I accept letters with or without names. I never print a person's name without permission. If a writer wants a personal reply to his letter he need only to enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope. All letters are strictly confidential and are destroyed after being answered.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Add diced green pepper and pimiento to cooked rice for a pretty colorful effect.

Senator's Wife Gets Lonely, So She Does Bit in Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Why does a senator's wife leave a busy life to do a walk-on in a movie?

This is the riddle posed by Marion Javits, bright-eyed wife of Sen. Jacob Javits (R-NY). She is here for a role in "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" She has three brief scenes as secretary to the New York FBI chief, performing with Tony Curtis, Dean Martin, James Whitmore and John McIntire.

The whole thing started, said the pretty brunette, when she had lunch one day in Lindy's in New York City. Her lunch mate was a friend of George Sidney, who was eating there, too. Mrs. Javits told the director she had always wanted to act.

"You've got a job!" he replied. But her yen goes deeper than just the desire to act. It has to do with the life of a senator's wife.

"It can be a lonely life," she remarked. "The campaigning is exciting and fun, but there is little that a wife can share with him."

"Some women can live with loneliness. I think it's easier for the older wives to adjust to it. But for the younger ones — and there are only about a dozen of us — it can be very difficult."

"I remember attending a luncheon which Mamie (Eisenhower) gave for the Senate wives and talking to one of the young wives. She was pregnant, and she was miserable about her existence. 'It's too lonely,' she said."

Mrs. Javits has chosen to keep her home in New York City. She goes to Washington for social occasions.

She does not entertain in Washington, but the Javitses maintain a strenuous social schedule at home from September to January, or during the congressional recess. Besides her duties as a senator's wife, she has three young children to look after and campaigns for mental health and the National Arts Fund her husband is sponsoring.

Then why does she need to act?

"Because I always wanted to," she explained. "I studied dramatics at the New School of Social Research in New York and with Gertrude Lawrence at Columbia. I even made the rounds of the producers in my early days; I never got one job. But I did work as a production assistant."

The Balkan Mountains extend through the center of Bulgaria, rising to a height of 8,000 feet.

"You've got a job!" he replied. But her yen goes deeper than just the desire to act. It has to do with the life of a senator's wife.

"It can be a lonely life," she remarked. "The campaigning is exciting and fun, but there is little that a wife can share with him."

"Some women can live with loneliness. I think it's easier for the older wives to adjust to it. But for the younger ones — and there are only about a dozen of us—it can be very difficult."

"I remember attending a luncheon which Mamie (Eisenhower) gave for the Senate wives and talking to one of the young wives. She was pregnant, and she was miserable about her existence. 'It's too lonely,' she said."

Mrs. Javits has chosen to keep her home in New York City. She goes to Washington for social occasions.

She does no entertaining in Washington, but the Javitses maintain a strenuous social schedule at home from September to January, or during the congressional recess. Besides her duties as a senator's wife, she has three young children to look after and campaigns for mental health and the National Arts Fund her husband is sponsoring.

Then why does she need to act? "Because I always wanted to," she explained. "I studied dramatics at the New School of Social Research in New York and with Gertrude Lawrence at Columbia. I even made the rounds of the producers in my early days; I never got one job. But I did work as a production assistant."

Fast Times, Close Races Feature Fair Harness Show

A threat of rain failed to dampen spirits or racing thrills at last night's final card of harness racing at the Pickaway County Fair.

Three double winners were recorded last night, all with times under 2:10 for the fastest speed program of the three-day meet held on the local Fairgrounds' raceway.

Not only were individual race times speedy but so was the time involved in holding the three races of two heats each. Presiding Judge Pearl McMahan was worried about the ever threatening rain clouds and ran the program in 1 1/4 hours.

Emmett Ebenbach, involved in a rough spill during the third race Thursday night, came back last night to win a double heat victory behind his favorite, Abbe Vo.

THE SIX-YEAR-OLD horse went out in 2:09.2 and came back with a second heat win in 2:09 flat in the Free For All Pace. In both heats, Ebenbach came from the rear to take over the lead at the three-quarter pole and hold on for victory.

In both heats, Abbe Vo nipped Marty's Pilot, owned by Edward Davis, Chillicothe, and driven by C. Richardson. Ernie Martin, son of noted race driver Porter Martin, took over the reins of Chet Lynn Tillie and drove her to a second and a third.

This was the first official time young Martin ever drove in a harness race and gave note to father, Porter, that he is a ready and able substitute.

Milt Carpenter, Orient, drove his seven-year-old Lizzie to a double heat victory in the second race of the evening, the 16 Class Trot. Carpenter won the first heat in 2:09 and bettered that time in the second, winning in 2:08.2.

Lizzie led the entire first heat, but was forced to come from second position in the second heat at the three-quarter pole to nip Private Buck, owned by Hunter Bennett, Weston, W. Va., and driven by J. Jones.

The evening's final race, the 21 Class Pace, saw Virginia's Dream, owned and driven by Harry C. Hughes, Washington C. H., win both heats in the night's best times.

THE FIVE-YEAR-OLD mare won both heats in 2:08.2, which was tied by Milt Carpenter in the second heat of the 16 Class Trot.

In both heats, Virginia's Dream came from back in the pack to win. She took command at the halfway mark of the first race to edge out Gemite, owned and driven by Jack Jones, Buckhannon, W. Va.

In the second heat the mare went ahead of Goose Direct at the three-quarter pole to win handily. More than 1,000 harness racing fans witnessed the evening's race card.

Winner Ebenbach shared in a $600 purse and was presented a blanket by Ward's Market. Second race victor, Carpenter, won half of the $500 purse and was awarded a blanket by the Circleville Savings and Banking Co.

Third and final race winner, Hughes, shared in the $500 purse and received a blanket donated by The Sturm and Dillard Co. Assistant McMahan in judging were Gunner Musselman and George A. Fissell.

Forrest Day, Sunbury, operated the starting gate. Willie Leist was the announcer. Timers were Harley Mace, Ed Shellhammer and Scott Radcliff.

MISS SARA SHORT was the race secretary. Miss Mary Clare Short was the outrider on "Lady Luck," owned by Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Short. An excellent track for racing was supervised by Shellhammer and Earl Martin.

In Eighth

A hot and heavy Little League

Major League race last night found Round Purina forced to go eight innings to edge the Elks, 8-7.

The minor league game between

Ward's Market and the Junior

Chamber of Commerce was rained out.

The youngest player in the major, Jeff Steele, racked up his first victory of the season

last night, relieving Johnny Wardell in the seventh inning.

Steele shut out the Elks in the seventh inning, but ran into trouble in the eighth after his teammates had rallied for three runs.

An error plus two walks loaded the bases against Steele. Jeff Ankrom hit into a force play as Joey

Leatherwood was trying for home.

MIKE SPANGLER walked in the first run and Ken Palmer hit a slow grounder to first, scoring

Jim Wells and all hands were safe.

Then Mike Wells popped to the pitcher for an automatic infield out and Palmer was caught off first for the third and final out, one short of a tie.

Jim Wells was charged with the loss, relieving starter, Bobby Dean in the fifth. Dean walked three and Wells, two. Dean recorded five strike outs to Wells, four.

Ken Smith started for Purina, but fell behind 2-0 in the initial inning and was relieved by Wardell in the second. Smith walked one, Steele, five and Wardell, six.

Steele registered one strike out and Wardell, two.

Eddie Smith bagged the only extra base hit of the game, a valuable double in the eighth to drive in two runs. He scored minutes later on Ronnie Seward's single.

Eddie Smith went 2 for 4 at the plate with three RBI to his credit. The Elks committed five errors to Purina's two. Purina now stands 5-2 in the second round and holds second place.

Pete Cooper Keeps Lead in Cleveland Open

44-Year-Old Keeps Stroke Ahead of Field of Youngsters

CLEVELAND (AP)—Goldfom's gay young blades have been giving old man par a beating in the first two rounds of the $25,000 Cleveland Open, but they haven't been able to do much with old man Cooper.

The latter is Pete Cooper, 44-year-old recent operator of a pitch-and-putt course in Lakeland, Fla. With the four-day, 72-hole medal play going into the second half today, Cooper still was keeping out in front.

In the first round, Cooper fired a 67, 4 under par for the 9,966-yard, par 71 Seneca course. That tied him with veteran Jim Ferrier of Burbank, Calif., another 44-year-old, a stroke ahead of a field of 152.

Friday, in the second round, there were some amazing deeds among the younger set. Paul Harney, 30, the 1957 winner from Worcester, Mass., carved out an 8-birdie 63. Gene Littler, 29, of Singing Hills, Calif., had an 8-birdie 64. Big Mike Soucek came in with 65, and Doug Sanders and Jay Hebert had 66.

There were 27 subpar rounds fired, but "Old Pete" was still out in front by a stroke. Harney, Littler and Soucek were deadlocked for second with 135.

Cooper merely duplicated his opening 67 and was all alone at 134. Ferrier slipped to 71 for 138, two back of 26-year-old Sanders and tied with Bob Goalby, 28, of Crystal River, Fla., and Bert Weaver, 27, of Beaumont, Tex.

Robert Shave Jr., Willoughby, posted a 74-67—141, while Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Athens, Ohio, showed a 74-68—142. Scores of other Ohioans included:

Dick Neuman, Willoughby, 71-76—147; Ray Stefank, Canton, 76-73—149; Joe Gyswick, Congress Lake, 76-74—150; Frank Beley, Canton, 77-74—151; Joe Dodich, Newark, 75-80—155, and Pete Inzano, Willoughby, 80-79—159.

National Junior

Golf Tourney

Enters Semifinals

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Larry Lee is the only kid who packs his own bag in the National Junior Golf Tournament but it doesn't seem to hurt his scoring.

The blond, 17-year-old Spokane, Wash., par bustier threw a 2-under 69 at 14-year-old Mike Riley of San Diego in the quarter-finals Friday and set himself up today as the favorite.

Riley finished with a 1-under 70. In the semifinals Lee takes on another 17-year-old, 115-pound Fred Leffingwell Jr., of Miami Beach, Fla., who came from behind to beat Dave Stockton of San Bernardino, Calif., 2 up.

Kermit Zarley of Seattle, another sharp golfer from the Pacific Northwest, moved into the semifinals by dumping Gary Polumbus of Denver 5 and 4.

Zarley, 17, plays Michael McMahon of Atlanta in the semifinals. McMahon advanced on a 2-up win over Jimmy Gabrielson of Athens, Ga.

Ollie Matson Awaits Debut With Rams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ramblin' Ollie Matson, the most valuable hunk of flesh in pro football history, makes his debut with the Los Angeles Rams today in the National Football League exhibition season curtain-raiser in the United States.

Traded to the Rams for almost an entire team—nine players—by the Chicago Cardinals, Matson steps into the left halfback position as Los Angeles meets the Detroit Lions at Boulder, Colo.

It will go into the books as the first all-NFL exhibition clash of the 1959 season. The Cardinals already have played one contest, but they beat a Canadian team, Toronto, north of the border.

Matson, in his seventh year in the play-for-pay ranks, was obtained by the Rams to bolster a weak running attack which had placed practically the entire offensive load on the Los Angeles quarterback.

The former University of San Francisco speedster should be able to rectify that situation and make the passing of Billy Wade more effective.

Last year Matson led the league in kickoff returns, averaging 35.5 yards a return. He's a fast, swivel-hipped runner, who also can bull his way against a tough defensive line. He has been among the leaders in rushing since he entered the league.

Lawrence Gets Lumps With Redlegs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Brooks Lawrence of the Cincinnati Reds used to be called the good luck pitcher of the National League.

Now he's taking a few lumps.

He inherited a tie game Friday night, but couldn't hold onto it. The league-leading San Francisco Giants a 3-2 victory.

In his last seven appearances, all in relief, the somber Springfield right-hander had won three games and saved three. When he took over for young Jim O'Toole Friday night, Lawrence had a string of 14 1-3 scoreless innings going.

But the ninth inning was the kind that haunts a pitcher. The first Giant, Leon Wagner, was hit by a pitch. Then Johnny Antonelli, who had held the Reds to four hits, tapped the ball to the mound.

Lawrence seized it, but his throw was in the dirt at second base. The ball bounced erratically for an error and pinch runner Felipe Alou skidded into third.

Willie Mays then bounced a game-winning single off Lawrence's chest.

Antonelli had kept the Reds' tame and virtually harmless through the contest.

In the top of the ninth, the Reds' best chance to punch out a lead came and went. Antonelli weakened and walked Willie Jones and Ed Bailey in succession.

But he got Roy McMillan to hit into a double play and end the threat.

All-America Jerry West of West Virginia's basketball team has been broadcasting a daily sports program at Charleston, W. Va., this summer.

Purina Tops Elks, 8-7 In Eighth

A hot and heavy Little League Major League race last night found Ralston Purina forced to go eight innings to edge the Elks, 8-7. The minor league game between Ward's Market and the Junior Chamber of Commerce was rained out.

The youngest player in the majors, Jeff Steele, racked up his first victory of the season last night, relieving Johnny Wardell in the seventh inning.

Steele shut out the Elks in the seventh inning, but ran into trouble in the eighth after his teammates had rallied for three runs.

An error plus two walks loaded the bases against Steele. Jeff Ankrom hit in'o a force play as Joey Leatherwood was trying for home.

MIKE SPANGLER walked in the first run and Ken Palmer hit a slow grounder to first, scoring Jim Wells and all hands were safe.

Then Mike Wells popped to the pitcher for an automatic infield out and Palmer was caught off first for the third and final out, one short of a tie.

Jim Wells was charged with the loss, relieving starter, Bobby Dean in the fifth. Dean walked three and Wells, two. Dean recorded five strike outs to Wells, four.

Ken Smith started for Purina, but fell behind 2-0 in the initial inning and was relieved by Wardell in the second. Smith walked one, Steele, five and Wardell, six. Steele registered one strike out and Wardell, two.

Eddie Smith bagged the only extra base hit of the game, a valuable double in the eighth to drive in two runs. He scored minutes later on Ronnie Seward's single.

Eddie Smith went 2 for 4 at the plate with three RBI to his credit. The Elks committed five errors to Purina's two. Purina now stands 5-2 in the second round and holds second place.

THE ELKS retained third with a 2-4 slate. The Ward's Market-Jaycee encounter was called after 1½ innings due to rain and the threat of lightning. The score read 8-3 in favor of the Jaycees with Ward's coming to bat in the bottom of the second.

The game was called a no contest and must be replayed from the start. After trailing 3-1 after the first stanza, the Jaycees combined five walks around two hits and an error for seven runs.

Pete Cooper Keeps Lead in Cleveland Open

44-Year-Old Keeps Stroke Ahead of Field of Youngsters

CLEVELAND (AP)—Golfdom's gay young blades have been giving old man par a beating in the first two rounds of the $25,000 Cleveland Open, but they haven't been able to do much with old man Cooper.

The latter is Pete Cooper, 44-year-old recent operator of a pitch-and-putt course in Lakeland, Fla. With the four-day, 72-hole medal play going into the second half today, Cooper still was keeping out in front.

In the first round, Cooper fired a 67, 4 under par for the 6,966-yard, par 71 Seneca course. That tied him with veteran Jim Ferrier of Burbank, Calif., another 44-year-old, a stroke ahead of a field of 152.

Friday, in the second round, there were some amazing deeds among the younger set. Paul Harney, 30, the 1957 winner from Worcester, Mass., carved out an 8-birdie 63 Gene Littler, 29, of Singing Hills, Calif., had an 8-birdie 64. Big Mike Souchak came in with 65, and Doug Sanders and Jay Hebert had 66.

There were 27 subpar rounds fired, but "Old Pete" was still out in front by a stroke. Harney, Littler and Souchak were deadlocked for second with 135.

Cooper merely duplicated his opening 67 and was all alone at 134. Ferrier slipped to 71 for 138, two back of 26-year-old Sanders and tied with Bob Goalby, 28, of Crystal River, Fla., and Bert Weaver, 27, of Beaumont, Tex.

Robert Shave Jr., Willoughby, posted a 74-67-141, while Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Athens, Ohio, showed a 74-68-142. Scores of other Ohioans included:

Dick Neuman, Willoughby, 71-76-147; Ray Stefank, Canton, 73-74-149; Joe Guysick, Congress Lake, 76-74-150; Frank Beley, Canton, 77-74-151; Joe Dodich, Newark, 75-80-155, and Pete Inzano, Willoughby, 80-79-159.

National Junior Golf Tourney Enters Semifinals

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Larry Lee is the only kid who packs his own bag in the National Junior Golf Tournament but it doesn't seem to hurt his scoring.

The blond, 17-year-old Spokane, Wash., par buster threw a 2-under 69 at 14-year-old Mike Riley of San Diego in the quarter-finals Friday and set himself up today as the favorite.

Riley finished with a 1-under 70. In the semifinals Lee takes on another 17-year-old, 115-pound Fred Leffingwell Jr., of Miami Beach, Fla., who came from behind to beat Dave Stockton of San Bernardino, Calif., 2 up.

Kermit Zarley, of Seattle, another sharp golfer from the Pacific Northwest, moved into the semifinals by dumping Gary Polumbus of Denver 5 and 4.

Zarley, 17, plays Michael McMahon of Atlanta in the semifinals. McMahon advanced on a 2-up win over Jimmy Gabrielson of Athens, Ga.

Ollie Matson Awaits Debut With Rams

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ramblin' Ollie Matson, the most valuable hunk of flesh in pro football history, makes his debut with the Los Angeles Rams today in the National Football League exhibition season curtain-raiser in the United States.

Traded to the Rams for almost an entire team—nine players — by the Chicago Cardinals, Matson steps into the left halfback position as Los Angeles meets the Detroit Lions at Boulder, Colo.

It will go into the books as the first all-NFL exhibition clash of the 1959 season. The Cardinals already have played one contest, but they beat a Canadian team, Toronto, north of the border.

Matson, in his seventh year in the play-for-pay ranks, was obtained by the Rams to bolster a weak running attack which had placed practically the entire of fensive load on the Los Angeles quarterback.

The former University of San Francisco speedster should be able to rectify that situation and make the passing of Billy Wade more effective.

Last year Matson led the league in kickoff returns, averaging 35.5 yards a return. He's a fast, swivel-hipped runner, who also can bull his way against a tough defensive line. He has been among the leaders in rushing since he entered the league.

Perry To Start For Indian '9'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Young Jim Perry has his work cut out for him tonight.

The 22-year-old rookie right-hander, a fugitive from the Cleveland Indians' bullpen, has been selected by manager Joe Gordon to pitch the second game of the series with the Baltimore Orioles. His opposition will be Skinny Brown, who has beaten the Indians three times this season.

Brown, who has been particularly tough on the Indians during the past two seasons, has won eight games and lost six this season. Perry's record is 8-3.

Kiwanis Downs DuPonters, 6-5

Kiwanis and DuPont hooked up in a tight Babe Ruth League duel last night at Ted Lewis Park, with Kiwanis finally coming out on top, 6-5.

Two big runs by Kiwanis in the seventh notched the win. DuPont marked a single tally in the final frame, but could not knot the count.

Richard Dean hurled the win, allowing eight hits and walking 10. Donnie Phifer was charged with the loss, although he gave only five hits and walked three.

DuPont took a 2-1 lead in the first inning and ran the count to 3-2 by the third before Kiwanis

Ortega Is Winner But by Whisker

NEW YORK (AP)—Gaspar Ortega, the long and lanky Indian from Mexicali, Mexico, had a decision over Benny "Kid" Paret on his record today, but he probably wasn't too proud of it.

The fifth - ranking welterweight contender got the votes of Judges Mike Parisi and Tommy Dolan in the 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden Friday night, but Referee Teddy Martin gave his nod to the unranked Paret, a stocky, muscular battler from Santa Clara, Cuba.

"They stole it from him (Paret)," wailed Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro. "The commission should revise the decision. I'll protest the decision to the commission Monday even if it costs me my license."

One of the oldest football rivalries is the annual game between Lafayette and Lehigh. Lafayette holds a 58-32 edge. Four games were ties.

GI's Defection to Commies Baffles His Brother, Fiancee

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP) —A 19-year-old American soldier has told Army authorities he wants to stay in Communist East Germany.

He is Specialist 4.C. Ernie F. Fletcher of Covington, Ky. He left his post in West Berlin without leave on June 8.

Soviet authorities in East Berlin allowed U.S. Army representatives to see Fletcher Wednesday with three Soviet officers present. The American officers reported that Fletcher seemed "determined to remain with his decision." They said he told them he had a very good job in an East German lumber business.

An Army spokesman said Fletcher was not asked why he went east.

Alvin Fletcher, a brother with whom the soldier had lived in Covington since he was eight years old, said he was shocked at the news.

He said he had not heard from Ernie since he went overseas more than a year ago.

"I can't say at this time whether I will try to contact him," Alvin told a reporter.

When informed last month that the young man had defected to Communist East Germany, Alvin declared:

"You'll have to show it to me. That's not like him. You could go on the street and stop a hundred kids and he'd be just like them, a practical, clean-cut American kid who believes in fair play."

Ernie Fletcher's three brothers —Alvin, Steve and Bob, are war veterans. The defecting Ernie enlisted in the Army May 1, 1957, went to Ft. Bragg, N. C., and took paratrooper training with the 82nd Airborne Division.

He re-enlisted for three years so he would be eligible for overseas duty.

Miss Phillis Mays, 16, who lives in Covington, earlier said she had expected to marry Ernie. She declared today:

"I am completely surprised by the news. I can't think why Ernie would do such a thing. He never talked about Communism or politics or anything like that."

Miss Mays said she had not heard from him for several months. Prior to that, she said, she had a letter at least once a week.

Hurricane Dot Leaves Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Hurricane Dot moved well north of the Hawaiian Islands today and weakened into a tropical storm.

But her 75 mile an hour winds had flooded and ravaged the island of Kauai at the northern end of the Hawaiian chain.

Dot's howling gales ripped roofs off houses, wrecked old frame buildings, flattened sugar cane, knocked down power and telephone lines and sent 1,000 tourists and residents to high ground.

No casualties were reported. Official estimates for the damage in Hawaii ranged up to six million.

TV Network Strategy Forces 'Line-UP' Cop To Quit Job

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tom Tully has turned in his San Francisco police badge and cashed out for $50,000.

The gruff, able actor no longer will be ferreting out hoods on "The Line-Up," the CBS crime series.

"I didn't like the new setup," he said. "They wanted to put me and Warner Anderson in supporting roles. After five years as stars of the show, I didn't think this was right. I had no objection to using new people, if it was handled intelligently. But they were killing the whole idea of the show."

Store Sales Continue To Show Climb

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sales volume in department stores in the Fourth Federal Reserve District continued a steady rise through the first two weeks of the steel strike, the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland reported today.

The Fourth District, which includes Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, and parts of northern West Virginia and Kentucky, includes five of the nation's 12 steelmaking areas and more than a third of the steelmaking capacity shut down by the three-week-old United Steelworkers strike.

The district was seven per cent ahead of a year ago for the week ended Aug. 1, compared with six per cent for the nation as a whole. For 17 straight weeks the sales volume in the district has been above the comparable year - ago figure, the bank said.

Preliminary estimates for July indicate sales volume was about six per cent ahead of June, the report continued.

Since the strike began July 15, steelworkers have drawn a regular paycheck for work done before the walkout, and many also have collected vacation pay.

Wheeling, however, was down eight per cent from a year ago. But Cincinnati, where the area's main steel producer, Armco at Middletown, is not affected by the strike, reported a three per cent increase in department store sales volume from a year ago.

Other steelmaking centers showed these increases in department store sales over a year ago: Pittsburgh, up five per cent; Cleveland, up 11 per cent in downtown department stores and 17 per cent in Greater Cleveland; Youngstown and Warren up three per cent and Canton up 14 per cent.

TV Network Strategy Forces 'Line-Up' Cop To Quit Job

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tom Tully has turned in his San Francisco police badge and cashed out for $50,000.

The gruff, able actor no longer will be ferreting out hoods on "The Line-Up," the CBS crime series.

"I didn't like the new setup," he said. "They wanted to put me and Warner Anderson in supporting roles. After five years as stars of the show, I didn't think this was right. I had no objection to using new people, if it was handled intelligently. But they were killing the whole idea of the show."

"The Line-Up" ran into trouble

Store Sales Continue To Show Climb

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sales volume in department stores in the Fourth Federal Reserve District continued a steady rise through the first two weeks of the steel strike, the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland reported today.

The Fourth District, which includes Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, and parts of northern West Virginia and Kentucky, includes five of the nation's 12 steelmaking areas and more than a third of the steelmaking capacity shut down by the three-week-old United Steelworkers strike.

The district was seven per cent ahead of a year ago for the week ended Aug. 1, compared with six per cent for the nation as a whole. For 17 straight weeks the sales volume in the district has been above the comparable year - ago figure, the bank said.

Preliminary estimates for July indicate sales volume was about six per cent ahead of June, the report continued.

Since the strike began July 15, steelworkers have drawn a regular paycheck for work done before the walkout, and many also have collected vacation pay.

Wheeling, however, was down eight per cent from a year ago. But Cincinnati, where the area's main steel producer, Armco at Middletown, is not affected by the strike, reported a three per cent increase in department store sales volume from a year ago.

Other steelmaking centers showed these increases in department store sales over a year ago: Pittsburgh, up five per cent; Cleveland, up 11 per cent in downtown department stores and 17 per cent in Greater Cleveland; Youngstown and Warren up three per cent and Canton up 14 per cent.

last season from the fast-moving "77 Sunset Strip," an hour-long whodunit that opposed the Tully-Anderson sleuthing in many time zones. CBS decided to fight fire with fire and expanded "The Line-Up" to an hour for the fall.

"I didn't want to go on an hour show unless it was done in big style," Tully added. "I suggested moving the locale to different parts of the country. One story could show Anderson in Washington, D.C., working with the FBI while I was pursuing the same case at the home base, San Francisco. Or I'd be in Boston and he'd be in San Francisco."

"They seemed to like my idea, and the authorities in the other cities offered their support. But then the network fell for some poll taken in the East. The poll said that we couldn't compete with '77 Sunset Strip' unless we got some juvenile leads."

"After five years as star, I wasn't going to be carrying papers in the background. I told them 'No, thanks; I'll quit while I'm ahead.'"

So he settled his contract for 50 grand. He still retains 25 per cent of the 183 half-hour shows that he made.

"Sure, I'm passing up some security by leaving the show," Tully commented. "But when a man loses faith in his own ability as an actor, that's when he should quit and go into the real estate business or something."

Tully is going to do "Death of a Salesman" in summer stock in northern California and would like to return to Broadway. He hasn't been back since 1943.
